Nobleman Engelbert van Horne inherited some land near Maarheeze in the 13th century. The real castle of Cranendonck was probably build because of him. In 1673 French forces distroyed the castle.

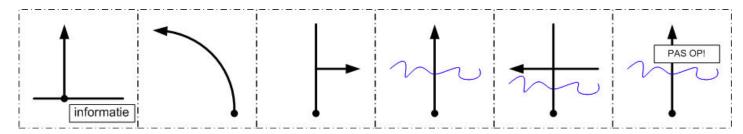

Near the grounds of the destroyed castle a farm was replaced by a villa in 1899 and a tower was added in 1917. This villa is now known as the Castle of Cranendonck and is used for the official marriage ceremony. You can park near the given coordinate.

The information panel in front of the castle shows some routes. How many kilometres is the Cranendonck Route? A = ...

In 1996 some remains of the former castle were found in the back-garden. Nowadays some stone-filled items represent the outer walls. Also the old canals are represented by smaller stones.
